

508

The listening organisation

This is actually going to be my next book, so watch this space... in the meantime, if you feel your organisation is not listening well, I suggest joining the International Listening Association, ILA for short. They have tremendous resources for listening, and you can find them online at www.listen.org.